

A large, dark industrial cable is being rewound on a trackway. The cable is suspended from a metal structure and is being wound onto a large metal drum. The background shows a complex industrial setting with various metal beams and structures.

Once a week,
the cable to the 200-pound weight
in the trackway
is rewound with a hand crank

